

Why partner with us for your Global Payroll Transformation?

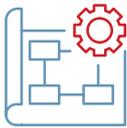

Navigate complexity with experienced guidance

Implementing a global payroll program is a transformative – and rare – event for your organization. Most teams will only experience this once in their careers, which is why having an experienced guide makes all the difference. You'll gain access to the knowledge, processes, and proven tools that put your transformation on solid footing from day one, helping you avoid unnecessarily long, complex, and strenuous rollouts that drain your resources and morale.

Establish strong governance and control from the start

Global payroll transformations require robust program management, risk oversight, and PMO functions to succeed. You'll establish and operate within a solid governance structure that gives your leadership the visibility and confidence they need. Our approach integrates seamlessly with your vendor's methodology, keeping your stakeholders aligned, decisions moving forward, and risks under control.

Build the integration backbone your program needs

Your global payroll doesn't operate in isolation – it connects to time systems, local payroll providers, banking platforms, HR applications, and countless other touchpoints. You'll have dedicated specialists designing and implementing the integration infrastructure that makes your entire ecosystem work seamlessly together. From technical architecture to data flows, you can be confident that everything connects properly from the start.

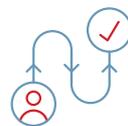

Migrate your data with precision and speed

Data conversion can make or break your transformation. You'll benefit from our skilled technical consultants who use proprietary software assets and accelerators specifically designed for high-quality payroll data migrations. We won't apply generic tools to your project – our purpose-built solutions handle the unique complexities of global payroll data, ensuring you achieve accuracy, completeness, and speed.

Structure your teams for success

Getting your team composition right is critical to success. We help you structure teams with the optimal blend of internal resources and external expertise, tailored to your complexity, available skills, and country-specific success factors. Whether you need deep local knowledge or specialized technical capabilities, you'll have the right people in the right roles at the right time.

Transition smoothly to sustained operations

A successful go-live marks the beginning of your journey with the new system. Ensuring your team is fully aligned with your vendors and ready to confidently manage all payroll-related processes; post-implementation is our joint focus. Through careful transition planning, you'll maximize your return on investment by developing the internal capabilities and confidence your organization needs to operate independently and effectively for years to come.

Execute flawlessly with our proven methodology

Experience a delivery approach built around comprehensive preparation at both global and local levels, with expert review of all critical deliverables and continuous vendor coordination throughout the project. This structured methodology protects you from delays and ensures complete coverage – nothing gets missed. Because we've honed these processes through many implementations worldwide, you gain the advantage of proven practices and insights drawn from diverse industries and markets.

Partnering with EPI-USE allows your people to accomplish the strategic transformation goals whilst we cover the heavy lifting.
